Huns Losing Heavily In Efforts to Break Through Italian Lines

By Throwing Great Numbers of Men Into Fray Huns Have Advanced Line to Dominating Point—Stopped Here by Heroic Defense of the Italians—Germans Repulsed in Attack in the Champagne Region and French Capture Prisoners in Raid

LONDON, Dec. 16.—Notwithstanding the terrible losses they have sustained, the German and Austro-Hungarian armies in the mountainous region of Northern Italy, continue their efforts to break the Italian line and open a passage to the plain below.

In France also there is little military activity except for small engagements by outposts and raiding contingents and artillery duels. The nearest approach to attacks in force were made by the Germans Saturday night in the Champagne region of France and to the north of the Chemin des Dames. The British captured a few German prisoners and a machine gun near Cambrai.

East of Brest the Germans have advanced and are pushing numbers of men into the fray; and seemingly disregarding the heavy sacrifices they are making upon themselves to advance his line to Capitole Hill, a commanding point in the Apennine Mts.

However, he has been compelled to withdraw from the Apennines, where the defense of the Italian lines, who evidently had no desire to make war to the last, was too far advanced.

In the center of Italy, and on the slopes on either side of it, well-tried Alpine troops are pushing forward with heavy toll for every inch of ground it.

Prior to gaining the summit of Capitole Hill, the invaders twice were repelled, but they came back again, and they brought up large numbers of fresh reinforcements, and the Germans were compelled to give ground.

At Haifa, the headquarters in Northern Italy, Dec. 16.—Germans are making another advance, and the heavy sacrifice of men and five days of continuous fighting have resulted in the capture of Capitole Hill east of the Brenta River. This represents an advance of about 10 miles, and is of chief importance being that Capitole Hill is the key to the defense of the head of San Lorenzo Valley, leading to the Po River, through which the enemy is persistently exerting himself to gain control of the previous week was to the junction of the passes west of the Brenta River, and the week before the last week has been given to the capture of Capitole Hill.

During the past five days has been heavy and at times desperate for both sides.

Italian Counteroffensive—In the struggle for Capitole Hill and today took on a double aspect, with the British and French on one side and Mount Peretta, occupied by the enemy, after the long and courageous fight, retaken by the 2nd, 3rd, and Mount Peretta and its neighborhood.

Austrian attacks on the left were twice repelled, and the Germans with a large addition of fresh troops to the assault, have taken Capitole, while the Italian lines were correspondingly driven back. Although the road to San Lorenzo Valley, the passage along the head of the valley, has been cut on both sides held by the Italians.

During yesterday the battle between the British and French was continued nervously. The artillery struggle, which had been repeated at intervals in the night, was suspended during the day and continued without inter-

NO MORE CONSCRIPTION IS NOW GOVERNMENT POLICY

Advertisement Appearing in Government Paper Promises
That Conscription of Hundred Thousand Men Exhausts
the Government's "Win the War" Program.

The Acadian Globe publishes an advertisement stating: "At half a million a month, the Government are doing one thing which is even more significant in the same. The appeal is not so much for conscription, but for support on the promise that there will not be any more conscription. 'The last man' policy has shrunk to a pledge to conscript one hundred thousand men and then 'quit the war.'

Either the Government are paying for this advertisement or some one is trying to make it appear that the Government are doing one thing which is even more significant in the same. The appeal is not so much for conscription, but for support on the promise that there will not be any more conscription. 'The last man' policy has shrunk to a pledge to conscript one hundred thousand men and then 'quit the war.'

As The Soldier Sees It

V. A. Burgess, a returned soldier of the 1st Battalion, has the following to say regarding the treatment of the returned soldiers, in a letter to the London (Ont.) Advertiser:

"I know personally have been discharged from the army in no way, and this is the only time I have been paid. The men of London will remember one soldier some time ago walking around here drunk. That's the noble sum he got, and there are dozens of others."

A Problem to Live

A statement by some British soldiers in the Labor Gazette revealed that it took $18 a week to keep a man and family of five, not including rent, food, clothing, and other expenses. According to the statement, according to the medical boards, is totally disabled, $40 a month no matter how large his family might be.

It would be much more merciful than bringing these home to us to let them stay in the service. We have thousands of thousands of freeloading soldiers who have been working around here, and we have no intention whatever of going to France, officers, N.C.O.'s and men."

Enough for Any Army

There are enough men in Britain and in England. It is true when it is said that half of the Canadian army are merely spectators.

There are two sides to the election, and we look at both. We are not going to be swayed by the promises of the politicians, but we see that the men who have gone and come back are treated as they should be and are given a fair chance financially to be able to live as well as they did before this war made them crippled for life.

Scores of Electors Called Away
From Districts on Election Day

Today there are in the city of Edmonton scores of electors who have been called away from their electoral districts for examination under the兵役法. These from East Edmonton or West Edmonton will not lose their votes in their votes at the polls but those from Victoria and Battle River will. The men from the latter two districts will be examined by members of New Norway, and Adolph Trappo of Hawash, who have been ordered to swear in the men. The men from the former two districts will be examined by local tribunals under the act. Twenty-eight men from the Grande Prairie district are also here for this purpose, they are staying in the city, and will be examined by K. Edward G. Smith, while the men from the Sunnydale Rooming house on 6th street. It is understood that there are votes thus lost may decide the result.

USC BLACK PENCILS

In marking your ballot be sure to use a BLACK PENCIL. It has been learned that an attempt is being made to use colored pencils, and to re-use ball-point pens.

VOTING CERTIFICATES ARE ISSUED WHOLESALE IN BLANK

The startling discovery was made Saturday morning that enumerators in East Edmonton District were issuing voting certificates in blank. One of these certificates has come to the hands of the Liberal committee, and is as follows:

FORM W-1.

This is to certify that ..... is a qualified elector of the Electoral District of .....

and that he is entitled to vote in the Polling Division No. .... in said Electoral District at the pending Dominion election on ..... day of .....

1918.....

ANNA CAMPBELL,
Enumerators for the Polling Division.
(The signature is handwritten.)

The effect of the certificate is to enable the holder to vote in any poll he pleases. One man holding a bunch of these certificates may vote as often as he likes. He may be sworn on the demand of the scrutineer, but if he takes the oath he cannot be prevented from voting.

Liberal scrutineers are advised to swear all persons attempting to vote an enumerator's certificate.

The Liberal committee has full information from an "inside" source as to the amazing extent of the plot to steal the election, and developments of an astounding nature may be expected either this evening or on election day.

The city and provincial police have been notified of the plot.

In connection with the foregoing, the Liberal committee rooms were informed that what purported to be a telegram from W. F. O'Connor, General Returning Officer, Ottawa, was available to be sprung on the deputy returning officers to the effect that persons holding such certificates were not to be sworn in, although the act says specifically that they must be sworn as to their identity and as to whether they have previously voted in the election.

A wire of inquiry was sent to Returning Officer O'Connor at Ottawa, and the following reply was received:

Ottawa, Ont., Dec. 15, 1917.

Mr. Frank Oliver, Edmonton:

No person is authorized to sign Form W-1 except after having examined application under oath and given a written or verbal statement and having signed it and determined upon the written examination whether applicant satisfies the act.

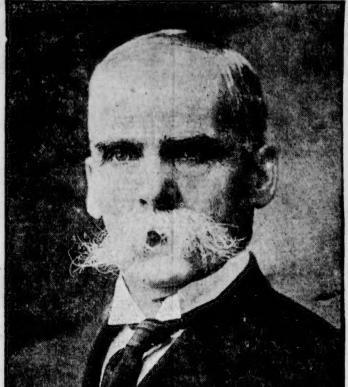

Further, no certificate in form 1 may lawfully be issued except on polling day.

Further, no such telegram as you mention has been sent by me to any persons, nor have I in any manner issued any instructions or given any opinion or ruling which in any manner whether authorizes or attempts to authorize any deviation from specific provisions of section 62 of Dominion election act.

W. F. O'CONNOR,
General Returning Officer.

Some deputy returning officers apparently misunderstood their rights and powers under sections 61 and 62 S.S. of the act. Any candidate or his agent (scrutineer) may under section 61 require the Deputy Returning Officer to swear him in, and if he does not do so, the Deputy Returning Officer is to swear any intending voter still stands. But under section 62, S.S. 4, an agent, in addition to swearing the voter, if he comes with a certificate from the enumerator and asks to have his name added, may make an oath himself in the form W-1 in the statute, saying that he does not believe the voter is entitled to vote, and in this latter case, the ballot is "tied up."

THE MOTHERS OF MEN

The bravest battle that ever was Shall I tell you where and when?

Or the map of the world you will

The fought by the mothers of men.

Not with cannon or battle shot,

Not with sword or bayonet,

Not with eloquent words of fire,

From mouths of wonderful men—

But deep in the walled-up woman's heart—

Of love that would not yield.

But bravely, silently, bore her part—

Lo, there is that battle field!

No marching column, no bivouac song.

No banner to claim and wave;

No drum to beat, no bugle to call.

From graves, still as a bridge of stars,

She sighs in her walled-up town—

Fights on and on in endless ways.

Wife, mother, friend, who died young.

Wife, mother, friend, who died young.

Oh, with banners and battle shout;

And soldiers to shout and shout;

With drums to drum and bugles to blow.

Wife, mother, friend, who died young.

Oh, spoken woman in a world of shame,

Who has given up her life for us,

She fights on and on in endless ways.

Wife, mother, friend, who died young.

Wife, mother, friend, who died young.

This kinglike warrior born—

TENER EXPRESSES VIEWS ON FUTURE BASEBALL GAME

Urged Owners to Maintain High Standard of Sport During War Time

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Holding that baseball is such an important sport in America, Mr. Tener, president of the National League, in his annual address last Tuesday, made public his views on the game, urging owners to maintain just as high a standard of play as possible during war times. He declared that, in developing and advancing the game, baseball would be more popular than ever after the war.

Mr. Tener said: "I am sure the American people will take in their baseball again when the war is over. I do not hesitate to express my confidence in this, though I have a deep conviction that the interest is inherent, that it will continue to grow, and that you should make provision for it. I urge you to maintain the highest standard, care and attention that is in for me."

Of playing—personnel, Mr. Tener said:

"Already every club has felt the effect of our national emergency, but we must not let this affect us. In its ultimate working will leave all clubs on par, so that the quality of play and playing strength is concerned."

Therefore, I strongly recommend the advisability of retaining under contract the best players, and in this time such as it may be determined by the owners, to give preference to those of standing, or that such reserve players shall be given preference in the first call, care and attention that is in for me."

Restitution Should Be Demanded

It is the duty of the Dominion Government to care for the dependents of our soldiers. The Government refused to do so and left the dependents to be supported largely at the expense of the taxpayers who had voted for the war. In Alberta the Provincial Government has decided to raise $800,000 by taxation rather than leave the helpless condition to which the Dominion Government subjected them. That item in the provincial accounts should be earmarked, and restitution demanded from the Dominion.

The Police Inquiry

The city police commissioners were prevented from holding a public investigation into the allegations of the League of Nations regarding the police force, by the refusal of the League officials to present their evidence except in private. The reporters and the public being excluded, the officers were left under a cloud of suspicion. This statement the commissioners declare to consist mainly, if not entirely, of a repetition of what the League said concerning the police force, without supporting evidence. The League officials having therefore presented what they had to present, and seemingly having nothing important to add, have probably reached a standstill, so far as they are concerned. But the matter of police efficiency is one which concerns not only the Canadian Service, but the taxpayers and citizens at large. The police commission is still doing business, and is, as always, ready to hear and investigate complaints to the best of its ability. It is to be hoped, for the sake of maintaining the reputation of the force, that the efficiency of the force, which the League has condemned based on facts will put them before the commission and thus make possible their investigation and whatever action may be called for.

Shorting to Divers' Attentive

Nothing matters but that we win the war" is true as expressing the overwhelming importance of the struggle. But that does not mean that nothing matters toward the winning of the war. The recruitment of a certain number of men, Mr. R. B. Bennett, director of the National Service, reminded his Edmonton audience a year ago that it would be useless to try to recruit and lose the country. "Canada can neither contribute its part to win the war, nor emerge from the war in condition to make specific contributions." He was then trying to conserve Canada's strength along the line of productive enterprise.

Food for the Allied armies and peace in the world are the aims of the fighting men, as the writer of this column stands the future supply of fighting men is better assured than the food supply. The cry that we can "win the war" by "shorting to divers" is not popular. It is to be expected that a Government created for the very purpose of continuing to "impose" the tariff as it stands or a higher one.

What He Has He Holds.
"I, W. A. Bourassa, do solemnly swear that I will never let the man who let him steal it be returned to power.

Its Measure.

The Winnipeg Telegram expresses a hope that the new Government "may prove as loyal, as patriotic, as enterprising, as energetic, as efficient in the discharge of its functions as its predecessor." From the rapidly accumulating evidence of their intentions to wipe out the Government, it seems to be the fear of the public that that is just about what the new Government would be.

The Supply Shut Off.

General Mewburn, Minister of Militia, says a fifth Canadian division, which is now in the field for lack of men. There would have been no lack of men if the Government had not extinguished voluntary recruitment. The only way to keep up the stream of recruits, if there is a shortage of reinforcements for the fighting line it is because recruiting in Canada has been paralyzed for six months.

Shares in Blame.

Men who failed to register under the Military Service Act or to apply for exemption are liable to be rounded up by the police and punished by the courts. It is unfortunate that a share of the punishment could not be inflicted upon those who induced the young men to refuse to report—by keeping them at home and assuring them that their country had been the target for contemptuous criticism for not having volunteered long ago.

The Diffrerence.

Lord Northcliffe refused a position in the British Government in order that he might be free to criticize through his newspapers, the most prominent of which is the Daily Mirror. The British Government goes with the Great Britain arrangement of the Government is accepted as a legitimate function of the public, and the national service of public affairs. In Canada, criticism of the Government is treated as gratuitous intermeddling on the part of the public with what is none of their business.

Unused Men.

The Canadian government considers the coming out of keep with the need for universal service in the interests of the country, that foreign-born residents of Canada have not been recruited into the Canadian battalions for no good reason. It is strange, and inconsistent with the claim, that the services of everyone available are recognized as being capable of meeting the various contingencies of the situation. It may be pointed out that the fact that these men are not being employed in any sort of their trade is not a good reason. They were not sent to join the battalions either for fighting or for construction work, were not even permitted to enlist when they thought they were too old to do such work of one sort or another the thousands of men who are not employed, the responsibility of the Canadian government. While thousands of Canadians have taken half way around the world to do construction work in Europe, and while thousands of British and French and building railways helping the fighting line, thousands of men experienced in these kinds of work have been left in Canada either to do nothing or to be unemployed to employ them, or lack of initiative. Had such men been recruited as construction battalions Canada's half million contingent could have been made up long ago, without any application of compulsion.

With the Humorists

Obstinate Men
"How do you do, sir?" exclaimed the auctioneer.
"Do as I can buy," answered the auctioneer with a grin.
"Much the same here," rejoined the postman, "but don't you direct?"
Auctioneering.
After dinner with a friend, the host said to his wife, "I am sorry, sir, that chicken was evidently tough." Mrs. Binks—"Good! To break off a string like that requires a strong will." Mr. Binks—"Well, what's your idea?"

Find a Medal

A good story is told of a sporting gentleman who, after a hearty meal, ordered a chicken.

"A strong will," said his friend, "when the waiter came in a great state of兀兀."

"Waiter," he said, "this chicken is very sorry, sir. That chicken was evidently tough, when we came to kill it we couldn't catch it at all, and had to shoot it. It ate a ten-cent—more or less."

"And that accounts for it. You must have been a good shot," said the waiter.

"I'm not a good shot," said the waiter.

"Then come an autumn morning, grey and cold, and little white houses green and peacock feathers, and the fields—"
